Kansas Husbands.

A woman takes great consolation in thinking that some day when she is laid in the cold, cold ground her husband will wish he had her back to tell her how surry he is that he treated her so mean. She imagines him weeping taken in time. The story of what it will do is told in the following letter:

over the sod and wishing he could see what it will do is told in the foreign as Rut he will not appear in her, if only for a moment, to ask her forgiveness. But he will not appear in such a scene. On the contrary, he will probably be chasing after some other woman.-Atchison Globe.

Dig Money.

One of the largest and most cumbersome forms of money is found in Central Africa, where the natives use a cruciform ingot of copper ore over 10 inches long. It is heavy enough to be a formidable weapon.

Natal's hippopotamuses are extinct. The last herd was protected by the government on a reservation near Durban, but did so much damage to the surrounding sugar plantations that orders weer given to have it destroyed.

THE STATE'S FUTURE.

Tae future of Nevada has never been so bright as it is at this time. Confidence is receiving inspiration from the many enterprises that are demanding attention. The near future, if present indications are not mythical will develop conditions more favorable to general business than has at any time been connected with the State. Tae force of circumstances is such that, like Banquo's ghost, it will not down at the bidding of the enemies of the commonwealth. The demand of the times is irresistable to the machinations of opposing forces that have ruled and prevented development from the beginning. The natural wealth of Nevada's lands and mines is becoming known to the outside world and before an enlightened public, the cry, against the State, made by those whose interest it has been to hold the people in vascalage and through vassalage keep the State in bondage to aid their personal and selfish ends, will in the future be veiled

The attention of men possessed of capital is directed to the valuable mines in the State, the richness of which is acknowledged upon examination to be equal to the requirements of land. capitalists and purchases are made that include immediate development of the purchased properties.

The richness of the mines and the presence everywhere of mineral properties necessarily include a solution of the problem, if such it is, of the superior wealth of the soils, each atom of which contains a property that will enter into and sustain vegitable life.

The much ridiculad sands of Nevads contain wheat food properties that have produced, by proper culture, from thirty to sixty bushels per acre and a solon Sunderland Jr. and Miss Kate likeratio of production will be maintainel for unlimited time. These despised sand soils that contain so much wealth are from three feet to one thousand feet in depth, the greater depths being at the river sinks or basine that receive the rivers and flood

It is not possible in the nature of things that a country possessed of such superior natural wealth can longer remain a source of ridicule which has its origin in ignorance; that should be excused in those who have not had opportunity for personal examination or the means of information through other sources. But those who have had opportunity to inform themselves State and who have continued to slar and misrepresent these conditions are guilty of a great wrong against the people, which wrong could not have been committed in the manner and to the extent it has been applied if the ren when teething. If disturbed at night people had been wide awake to their and broken of your rest by a sick child suf real interests and true to each other as a commonwealth. The policy of the low's Soothing Syrup for children teething, enemies of Nevada has been to apply It will relieve the poor little sufferer immea commonwealth. The policy of the in a mean and small way the rule of diately. Depend upon it mothers there is the first Napoleon-livide and conquer-and, by dividing the people, weaken and destroy any effort made by those who were true to them, and who were seeking to advance by legitimate development their material and business interests.

TAXING RAILROAD PROPERTY.

In the September 2d issue of the JOURNAL State Controller Davis in a published interview with a Journal scribe said that the present State officers would cause the property of the railroads, had they the power to do so, to be assessed as other property is assessed, but, as the law is, the necessary power to assess is not given; that the State officers will, provided required legislation is made conferring authority, assess railroad property as other property is assessed. In the proviso is Charley Wallace will likely attend to the required legislation in a way that no bill giving authority to State officers or other body to assess railroad property will pass a Legislature and become a law. No one who knows C. C. Wallace will doubt his ability to prevent the needed legislation to give power to assess. Nevada's Legislatures have disregarded, willfully or ignorantly, the authority of the Constitution, but no Legislature has had the temerity to disregard the will of the Central Pacific boss.

The legislation mentioned will not be permitted, as it would place railroad property in the same position as the erty in the State over its present as- house.

sessed value not less than $100,000. It COUNTY COMMISSIONERS may not have occurred to Controller Davis that in the person of Charley Wallace is the will of the people in Nevada respecting political and business matters, and while such conditions are upon the State should it be surprising that his will is ever the will of a legislative body?

THE GOOD WHITE METAL,

"Did you hear from Ohio?" In propounding the above conundrum I am simply echoing the query asked me on every street corner of our town.

To my own mind the news from the great state convention of the great state of Ohio which assembled a few days ago in Zanesville in the Buckeye state, is the most cheering of anything I have read for several months.

I say this in view of the fact that a few pin-headed lawyers and two or three nickle-plated editors of our state have for several months been telling me that bimetalism was dead. But when I found that over 800 representative men of Ohio representing at least one-half of the five millions of the people in that state, have the manhood and patriotism to declare for the white metal on equal terms with gold at the mints, I feel that your fight and mine for free coinage under the laws made by our forefathers has not been in vain.

IN MONTHLY SESSION

Resolution Adopted, Bills Allowed, and Several Kicks Regietered.

Commissioners of Washoe county begun their regular monthly sitting yesterday. There was a full attandance of the board.

The usual complaints were entered against the condition of the roads, some being in a bad state of repair and others deluged with irrigation water. These kicks were sidetracked until the "asocharine futurity." T. K. Hymers proposed a resolution which was unanimously adopted. It provides that the sheriff, constables and district attorney be charged with weak. the duty of enforcing the law regard. ing fish protection.

From Supt. Joy's report it is learned that 23 was the average number of inmates of the county hospital during August. Two patients died.

The work of passing upon bills consumed the time of the board until closlug time, when it adjourned to to-day.

Mines.

Cheap Power - Congre sman Newlands has returned from San Francisco where for two weeks he had been in daily conference with the people who are erecting the Floriston plant, with the Pumping Association representatives and with the management of the Comstock mines He has also been studying the different locations of power supply on the Truckee river and in other ways giving his attention to the cheup power project

In reply to questions by a Journan interviewer Mr. Newlands said.

"We have elaborated plans that will result in the Comstock having power within the next year, the highest cost of which will be $7 per horse power a month their power has cost from $20 to $30 per month per horse power

'The contracts provide for increase of the plant in such a way as to meet the requirements for unwatering to a depth of 3000 feet, which will permit thorough exploration of the ground below the Sutro tunnel.

"It means renewed life to the Comstock, as it is hard to beheve that the levels below the Sutro tunnel are barren of ore Bonanzas have been discovered above the Sutro tunnel lying in the great ledge like raisins in a pud ding There is no reason why they should not also be discovered below as the formation is the same '

temperate atmosphere, impregnated with the sweetest emanations of the pines and flowers of the Sierra Nevada mountains, we must expect among the people of Reno to meet only with amenity of manners and sweetness of disposition.

On the banks of the perennial and rippling Truckee river at the western border of the great trackless desert, which embraces millions of acres, which spread out between the snow crested peaks and towering woodlands of the mountains, is situated the beautiful city of Reno No place on earth offers more natural beauties or greater resources within its confines or environs than Reno. How our beautiful surroundings compare with the desert and melancholy campagna around Rome compare with it the steppes of Asia, the pampas of South America, the deltas of the Nile and Mississippi, fade into insignificance. Here in the great fertile valley rivaling in its productive capabilities the plain Esdraelon, is the spot above all others in Nevada where destiny designed that a great and prosperous inland city should be built. No wonder that the aborigines worshipped its beauty, and civitized man paused, spell bound, and plante t the tents of civilization where stands Reno.

Is a surprising that Reno, the capital city of Washoo county, lead-Civilization and the works of agriculture, raining and commerce are now visible on every hand. These are the results of but a few years. Time's civilizing agencies have wrought miracles, but the ornamenta-

So lavishly manifested in the formation of this section, remain as they have been for ages. Here, where herds of buffalo were corraled by the Indian we now find domestic animals pasturing amid the scene of peace and plenty. How the scenes have changed in a quarter of a century when plain and grove and glen were filled with the fiendish red men and the beautiful, peaceful scenes of to-day were purpled with the streams of life. What troops of Ossian ghosts could be marshaled by the mysterious alchemy of a poetic mind? Beautiful Reno, how sweet it sounds! The city of to-day is charming to the eye and its name is pleasant to the ear. The settlement of Reno dates back to the latter part of the '60's, when the Centrai Pacific railroad, the connecting link between Ogder, Utab, and the Golden Gate was constructed. These were days of western romances in reality But the Sunday school, the Church, the school house, and carnest law-abiding people came into the community and the foundation for educational and Christian center was laid as firm as adament, and the city has grown and prospered and improved from that

Reno is noted far and near as a beautiful residence place, added to natural attractiveness of its location is the regular manner in which its streets are laid out. Six months in the year the ditch of every curbstone in the city is filled with water and thousands of trees draw nourishment therefrom and spread their leaves to the summer sun. Nothing summer months in this charming city; flannel garments are worn with comfort, although the days get quite warm the nights are cool, and one can sleep comfortable, and the winter, owing to the crisp, dry air and the perpetual sun light is robbed of many of the rigors of the season experienced in lower altitudes. The altitude of Reno is 4.497 feet

It is see, ely necessary in an article of this chinact r at this time to make any reference to a prevalent castern idea, that far, west-rn towns are inhabited by a lawless or semi-civilized class of people. It does every western man good to see an eastern egotist come west. Those who come with that idea usually learn a lesson tha' will lest them a life time All nations love their country, and so the people of Reno love their city. They talk of it with pride enthusiasm, they know her possibilities and have great confidence in her future. Their liberality in all public matters is worthy of admiration. We are strangers to that hot moisture that produces pestilential fevers. Storms come occasionally, but when they cease the heavens, under a powerful sun, resume their beauty and serenity.

The city enjoys every modern convenience that can be found in cities of four times its size in the east. It has a population of 6,900 people and it is ever progressive, nover resting. A point which was yesterday invisi-

Ponham & Stoddard

In this review of the business interest of Reno special mention must be given the firm of Bonham & Stoddard, real estate and fire insurance agents. Office on Second street, next door to Journal building. Mr. Bonham is a Notary Public, makes a specialty of fire insurance and is agent for the New York Life, They have been in business since last June. Land applications and contracts attended to, records searched, money loaned, rents collected. All business on trusted to their care will re ceive prompt attention. They represent the following firstclass fire insurance compan'es: $10,090,000; Manchester of Orient of Hartford, Conn. capital $500,000.

work. Prescriptions and family receipts are a specialty. Mr. Pinniger has been located in business in this city for the past twenty-three years, and is a member of the Pharmacentrical Society of Great Britain. During his business career in Reno he has ever sustained an untarnished reputation for just dealings and none are more deserving than he of the esteem and respect in which he is held by the community.

Sol Levy

Another one of our leading business houses and one we can reccommend with pride is the drygoods store of Sol Levy and is one among the larges in the city. A tour of inspec tion through this large establishment will fully convince one that no house in the state carries a better variety of goods, combined with such general excellence in quality. The store is one of the oldest established drygoods houses in the city. Mr. Levy has been in control for many years. Every department is complete with an elegant assortment of goods from the most reliable sources of production, both foreign and domestic. The stock comprises drygoods, millinery and fancy goods, carpets, linoleums, oil cloth, window shades, ladies' and children's underwear, blankets, quilts, etc., ladies' jackets, capes, cloaks, and corsets, kid gloves guaranteed. The rule of Mr. Levy seems to be, once a customer always a customer, therefore all he asks is a trial.

Mrs. C. E. Murphy, Millinery.

One among our most favorably known millinery stores is the one owned by Mrs C. F. Murphy She has been located here in business one year and a half, and her store is very tastely fitted up with a very nice display of trimmed hats which she keeps on hand to supply the demands Phoenix of London, capital of her customers, which are among the best in the city. Mrs. Murphy England, capital $10,000,000; also conducts dressmaking parlors in connection with her millinery store, and her ability to furnish a stylish garment at most reasonable prices is without question.

A. W. Fox, Merchant Tailor. Where to obtain a perfect fit in the matters of clothing is always a much agitated question with gentlemen. Mr. Fox answers the question to the entire satisfaction of all, and attractive advantage; also wines and especially in prices which are extraordinarily low. He does all of his own cutting and fitting, and in this manner he is enabled to turn out garments at the minimum of expense, while his custom. ers obtain the best materials and a perfect fit at lowest prices consistent with firstclass goods. He carries a carefully selected stock of strictly high grade material, of both domestic and imported manufacture, which are suitable for any and all classes of superior garments. Mr. Fox has been in business four years in this city being the successor to the old Boston Tailoring house, which was established in Reno twenty-five years ago. The

He carries a full line of easters and coffins and all trimmings and articles that necessarily are accompaniments of the undertaking business. Emissiming is done in accordance with the latest and most approved principles of the art. He takes full charge of all details in preparing and laying away the remains of the dead, and these last sad rites are conducted with gentleness, tenderness and the utmost decorum. Every detail in the conduct of the business, from embalming process to the burial, has personal direction and supervision.

The Caun Drug Company.

One among the best known pharma cies in the city is the Cann Drug Co. located at the corner of Virginia and Second Street, where they have been in business for the past ten months. They carry a full line of drugs, chemicals toilet articles, etc. The Orange Flower Cream, which will make the skin soft and white. They have the largest and finest stock of photographer's supplies in the State. They have the agency for the Bell Conservatory Company, also handles Gunther's candies. They make a specialty of prescriptions, and nothing but purest drugs are used in the prescription work.

Lange & 'chmit, Hardware,

This well-known hardware store is one of the largest in the city of Reno, located on Commercial row west of Virginia street. Their stock consists of hardware, tinware, stoves, crockery, ammunition. paints, oils, glass, agate ware, rope and gas pipe. They also have in connection a tin shop where all repairing is neatly and promptly done. They also do plumb ing and gas fitting of which they make a specialty. The firm of Lange & Schmitt have been in business twelve years in this city. The Universal stoves and the Royal steel ranges, which they are agents for, are among the leading attractions to house-keepers, and they can sell cheaper than any other firm in the city notwithstanding a rise in the price of iron. We are glad to note that they are receiving a full share of patronage with business constantly increasing.

Palace Bakery.

Out of the many well ordered and ex cellent bakeries that have come into prominence, few have secured a firmer hold on public favor than this establish ment. Purchasers are assured of getting a reliable article. Mr. Otto Hartung is the genial proprietor of this well knows bakery. He has been in business since 1979, although he has been a resident o Reno since 1874. This estublishment is an ornament to Reno and is as neat and tidy as a place should be where edibles are kept. Mr. Hartung has always en deavored to make the place as attractive as circumstances and conditions would permit, but it is only after twenty years that he can point with pride to his establishment and feel clated over the verdict In connection with this bakery is one of the finest and best patronized soda foun tains to be found in this or any other city also an ice cream parlor which is up to date in every detail. Concluding we wish to say every Renoite should be proud of the Palace bakery.

Tassell Bros. Shoe Company.

The most prominent shoe firm of Rene is the one owned and conducted by Tassell Brothers, and located on the eastern side of Virginia Street. This store is the largest and only exclusive shoe firm in the city. While the stock consists o fine grades of shoes among which are some of the prettiest shapes and stylemanufactured, for both ladies and gen tlemen and children. They have had a wide experience, being in the business for forty years, and have been in business, in this city for fifteen years, and has al ways been a valuable adjunct to the business interests of Reno, in furnishin; to our people the most useful articles fo. their comf rt at the most moderate prices, and our people appreciating this fact, give them a liberal share of their patronage. Mrs. Harrington has been located in business in this city for two years.

Coffin & Care mbe,

Among the well represented and prosperous business firms of this city, none are better known than that of Collin & Larcombe, who are a thorough-going and enterprising business, firm, enjoying a high reputation in business cheles. The store is handsomely and testefully fitted up. The stock comprises a full and complete assoriment of staple and lancy groceries, and everything that goes to make up a first-class grocery store, including fruit, vegetables, fish. candies, nuts, tobacco and eigars, and if you want the sweetest and finest flavored sugar syrup ever made by the Tea Garden Drip, canned only by the Pacific Coast Syrup Co., of San Francisco, California, Coffin & Larcombe have it for-sale, the store is located on Sierra Street, north side of track. Parry Brothers' Bottling Works. In no local industry has such a marked change for the better taken place during the past year as in the bottling works operated by Parry Brothers. They have been in business n Ren o for the past filteen years, although R. W. Parry has been acting in a business capacity for twenty-four years. There is a sample room connected with the works where all the choice wines, liquors and eigars are sold and fresh beer always on top. The late improve ments made by the Parry Brothers are not only improvements in the strict sense of the turm, but are permanent from the fact that the most modern housing machinery has been purin and their works are equipped as well, if not better than any bottling plant on the Pacific coast. The magnitude of their business has deminded better facilities. W Goeppert, manager of the bottling department of the Veiland Trevery of Sen Francisco, superintends the work and being an expert in this line, he knows how it should be done.

The beer is bottled under great air pressure, retaining its original strength and qualities The beer, when in the keg, is fifteen feet below where it is bottled and is put upon the platform one or two hours before it is ready for bottling, that is to let it settle. The beer is icc cold when bottled and is run off at the rate of thirteen dozen in nine minutes. Samples of the new bottling have been furnished all liquor dealers in the city, and judges of the beverage say that it is superior to any beer on the market, The dining room is up to date in a French castern beer not excepted.

"If there is one thing that makes me little wearier than another," said an amateur cynic, "it is to hear a man boast that he 'never talks shop.' #### A PAIR OF BIG FEET.

Changed the Map of Europe.

The Princess Bismarck changed the political history of France unwittingly, and but for her the Franco-Prussian war might never have been waged. Bismarck was unfriendly to France but the Empress Eugenie hoped with her beauty to influence him so that the little trouble with France and Germany might be smoothed over. She therefore invited the German prince and his wife to visit the court of France, and the Prince and Princess Bismarck arrived in great state at the Tuileries.

That evening there was a grand reception, and Eugenie received the guests in a gown which made her so ravishingly lovely that even Prince Bismarck, German, stolld and in love with his wife, stood and gazed upon her with admiration. And Eugenie was not slow to observe the effect of her beauty upon him. She called him to her side, and Bismarck came with his wife upon his arm.

Now, the Princess Bismarck was tall and gaunt and ugly, and her feet were generous. As she walked she showed a great deal of sole,

While Bismarck stood talking with Eugenie an audible titter was beard along the line of ladies. Bismarck, who was quick as a flash, followed the glauce of their eyes and saw them rest upon the feet of his wife.

THE MYSTERY OF DREAMS.

A Case In Which the Coincidences Were Remarkable.

On an occasion during the civil war I dreamed that I was standing beside a road when there came marching along it a strong column of prisoners. with guards at intervals on the I asked one of these guards who the prisoners were and where they had been captured. He informed me that they had been taken in an engagement with the enemy on the day before and that there were 1,900 of what day of the ' inth it was and was told that it was such a day of a certain month, some six weeks later than the date of the dream. The whole dream was extremely distinct, and it made a strong impression on me. I related it to a number of my comrades within the next few days and then thought of it no more.

Six weeks later, on the morning of the very day that had been mentioned in the dream as the date when the eclarin of prisoners had passed before me. I was on picket two miles distant from the point where I had seemed to be when I saw them. It was soon after breakfast, and I was standing by the side of the road at the fire talking to the officer of the picket when an aid to the commanding general came riding down the read. He had been a Schoolfellow of our officer's at West Point and reined up when he recognized his friend. He told us that he had good news, that there had been a sharp eugagement with the enemy the day before and that our people had captured 1.900 prisoners, who had just passed the beadquarters that morning on their way to the rear .- St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

IT WAS A REAL DUEL.

TWO DANISH OFFICERS FOUGHT IT OUT WITH BROADSWORDS.

The Furious Conflict Took Place Be fore an Audience In a Gymnasium In Washington In a Building Which Adjoined the Police Station.

"I have figured in quite a number of varied events during over a quarter of century of active newspaper repertorlal life," explained an old newspaper writer to a Star reporter, "but I never got in but one duel when it was to a finish, and in the instance I refer to it was to a finish, I assure you. I was only an onlooker, it is true, but I saw more than I wanted to see, and more than I would willingly again see. It was nearly 20 years ago, but I have not forgotten it.

"At the time there was a gymnasium on Louisiana avenue, between Ninth and Tenth streets. The building adjoining was the old central guardhouse, the police station. "One evening I was invited by a friend, who was a former newspaper man, but afterward a patent attorney, and who also acted as the resident Danish consul, to attend the gympasium to witness a sword combat, in which two of his friends were to take part. I was told that three or four others would be present, and the combat would be rather lively. I realized that part of it fully, to my complete satisfaction.

"With the others, three newspaper writers, a couple of actors and a couple of sporting men, we got to the gymnasium about 9 o'clock, but were told that the combat would not take place until the gymnasium classes had been dismissed, as it was desired that the onlookers should be as few as possible.

"None of us had any idea as to who the participants would be or the particular reason for it, but we were told that it was desired that we should be present to see that everything was conducted properly. From this we inferred that there was a stake or something at issue, and we were to be the judges as well as referees, as it were.

"At 10 o'clock two carriages arrived. in each of which was a single occupant, each having a sword, what is commonly known as a broadsword, like that which men-of-war's men have. They had but little to say, and in a few minthem. I then asked some bystander utes they were properly attired in the gymnasium suits and announced that they were ready for the battle.

"I had seen some professional broadsword combats and rather looked for some heavy work, but in less than a minute we all realized that there seemed to be more earnestness about the combat than was customary in meetings of professionals, it mattered not how large the stakes were.

"The men wore the customary wire head covering; and it was well they did so, otherwise there would have been one or two heads scattered about on the floor, for the fight was fast and furious. At the expiration of ten minutes these was a halt called so that a terrible gash on the sword arm of one of the combatants could be bandaged by a physician who conveniently dropped in.

"Then the fighters started in hammer and tongs at each other, and in 12 minutes one of the men was lying on the floor with a terrible gash in his shoulder and a rap on his head which sounded so loud that it was heard in the police station adjoining. The clothing of the men was as fully covered with blood as if they had been painted with but we must also try to use the best words and those which in speech will put what is in our minds into the minds of others. This is the great art [ which those must gain who wish to teach in the school, the church, at the bar or through the press. To do this in the right way they should use the short words which we learn in early life and which have the same sense to Take that which says, 'O ye generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come? There is one long word which ought not to be in itnamely, 'generation.' In the old version the old word 'broad' is used. Read the verse with the term, and you will feel its full force: 'O ye viper's brood, who hath warned you to fice from the wrath to come? Crime sometimes does not look like crime when it is set before us in the many folds of a long word. When a man steals and we call It a 'defalcation,' we are at a loss to know if it is a plunder or a crime. If he does not tell the truth, and we are told that it is a case of 'prevarication,' it takes us some time to know just what we should think of it. No man will ever cheat himself into wrongdoing, nor will be be at a loss to judge of others if he thinks and speaks of acts in clear, crisp terms. It is a good rule. if one is at a loss to know if an act is right or wrong, to write it down in short, straightout English."

THE END OF A BANDIT

HOW SAM BASS MET A VIOLENT DEATH IN A TEXAS TOWN.

The Shooting of the Notorious Desperado Was the Outcome of a Deliberate Murder Committed by One of His Gang of Outlaws

"In the little town of Round Rock, in Williamson county, Tex., not more than 30 miles distant from Austin, repose the remains of one of the most desperate highwaymen that ever operated in our section," said Mr. I. N Orocker of the Lone Star State to a reporter.

"It was in the spring of 1878 that Sam Bass met his fate in this sleepy little town, and when he died with his boots on the southwest was rld of a criminal who was easily the peer of be distinguished at a glance. If he be Jesse James, though he hadn't quite as long a run as that noted outlaw. Bass was a product of Michigan-at least, his sister, a gentle girl, came down from some town in that state to see that his body was decently interred.

"Bass had collected about him a com pany of as hardened thieves as ever engineered a hold up. The gang had robbed a number of trains in Missouri and Arkansas and concluded they would make one more good haul in Texas before riding across the border but they also know that beyond the into Mexico, where they proposed to stay in retirement for a season.
**"Bass had planned the looting of the only bank at Round Rock as an easier Job and doubtless a better paying one than tackling a train, which feat had been performed too often to be thoroughly safe. By changing his programme to raiding a village bank there might be more lucre and less risk.

"So on that levely merning in May when he and his fellow thleves rode into the unsuspicious town they chuckled to think what an easy job it would be to transfer the bank's cash to their pockets. So thoroughly certain were they of getting off with the plunder that they were in no haste about the matter. One wanted to get a shave, another went into a restaurant and so they scattered singly over the place, but there was an understanding as to the time of attack, and a rendezyous was fixed upon.

"Meanwhile, unknown to the bandits a squad of mounted Texas rangers had been pressing hard upon the trail of the bad men, and within an hour after the Bass outfit entered Round Rock Sergeant Dick Ware, with eight or ten rangers, also reached the scene. He wasn't aware of the presence of the robbers, nor did they dream that the officers of the law were in that vicinity. Neither did any citizen of the town have the remotest idea of the identity of certain rough looking men, strangers in the place. But they might be cowboys from some distant west Texas cattle ranch, for the presence of such was too common to occasion notice.

"The climax came quite by accident One of the ruffians who had sauntered Into a store to make a few purchases, in reaching for his purse to make payment, disclosed a big Colt's revolver. The Texas law against carrying guus was strict, and it so happened that the man who saw the weapon was none other than the town marshal, as brave a fellow as ever lived. He walked up to the desperado and said quite courteously:

"'My friend, I'll have to relieve you of that six shooter.'

"'I'll give it to you, then,' said the robber with an oath, and in a second had drawn his weapon and fired upon the marshal, who fell dead at the report

"Upon this the robber rushed out of the store, and immediately his comrades came running to the spot faster than did the rangers with their Winchesters, ready for action. In a second it seemed as if both sides had the situation revealed, and the robbers turned to run to where their horses stood tied, a block from where the murder of the marshal occurred. Before he had run 50 yards Dick Ware had sent a bullet into the head of Barnes, Bass' lieutenant, which laid the highwayman low.

"Bass, mortally wounded, managed to get upon his horse, which he urged to breakneck speed. The animal ran for about three miles till he reached the open prairie and stopped to graze. As he did so his rider, unable to sit longer in the saddle from loss of blood, fell to the ground.

"When they found him a few hours later, he was dying. He recognized Sergeant Ware as the man who had killed him and said he wanted Ware to have his horse. He regretted their procrastination in robbing the bank, for if they had only known the rangers were so near they could have finished the job and escaped."-Washingtou Post.

The milkmen of Naples have a way of carrying concealed in their waistcoats bladders full of water.

From these bladders India rubber tubing stretches down their arms, and by simply pressing their sides while they are drawing the milk they are able to squirt water from the bladder into the jug or basin simultaneously with the milk. So it is quite a common plan for a woman who is getting her jug filled with milk to hold the milkman's wrists while he milks his cow or goat. ## A HISTORICAL RIDE.

IT WAS WORTH THREE STARS TO THE AMERICAN FLAG.

Marcus Whitman's Wild and Perilous Journey of 4,000 Miles From Oregon to Washington and the Results Which Followed In Its Wake.

The ride of Marcus Whitman was ever snow capped mountains and along dark ravines, traveled only by savage men. It was a plunge through icy rivers and across trackless prairies, ride of 4,000 miles across a continent in the dead of winter to save a mighty territory to the Union.

Compared with this, what was the feat of Paul Revere, who rode 18 miles on a calm night in April to arouse a handful of sleeping patriots and thereby save the powder at Concord?

Whitman's ride saved three stars to the American flag. It was made in 1842.

In 1792, during the first administration of Washington, Captain Robert Gray, who had already carried the American flag around the globe, discovered the mouth of the Columbia river. He sailed several miles up the great stream and landed and took possession in the name of the United States.

In 1805, under Jefferson's administration, this vast territory was explored by Captains Lewis and Clark, whose reports were popular reading for our grandfathers, but the extent and value of this distant possession were very slightly understood, and no attempt at colonization was made, save the establishment of the fur trading station of Astoria in 1811.

Strangely enough, England, too, claimed this same territory by virtue of rights ceded to it by Russia and also by the Vancouver surveys of 1792. The Hudson's Bay company established a number of trading posts and filled the country with adventurous fur traders. So here was a vast territory, as large as New England and the state of Indiana combined, which seemed to be without any positive ownership. But for Marcus Whitman it would have been lost to the Union.

It was in 1836 that Dr. Whitman and a man by the name of Spaulding, with their young wives, the first white women that ever crossed the Rocky mountains, entered the valley of the Columbia and founded a mission of the American board. They had been sent out to Christianize the Indians, but Whitman was also to build a state.

He was at this time 35 years old. In his journeys to and fro for the mission he soon saw the vast possibilities of the country, and he saw, too, that the English were already apprised of this and were rapidly pouring into the territory. Under the terms of the treaties of 1818 and 1828 it was the tacit belief that whichever nationality settled and organized the territory, that nation would hold it. If England and the English fur traders had been successful in their plans, the three great states of Washington, Oregon and Idaho would now constitute a part of British Columbia. But it was not destined to be.

In the fall of 1842 it looked as if there would be a great inpouring of English into the territory, and Dr. Whitman took the alarm. There was no time to lose. The authorities at Washington must be warned. Hastily bidding his wife adieu, Dr. Whitman started on his hazardous journey. The perils, hardships and delays he encountered on the way we can but faintly conceive. His feet were frozen, he nearly starved, and once he came very The Egyptian never travels without near to losing his life. He kept terrible months he reached Washington

Whitman appeared before the two great men to pleas: for Oregon.

His statement was a revelation to the administration. Previous to Whitman's visit it was the general idea in congress that Oregon was a barren, worthless country, fit only for wild beasts and wild men. He opened the eyes of the government to the limitless wealth and splendid resources of that western territory. He told them of its great rivers and fertile valleys its mountains covered with forests and its mines filled with precious treasures. He showed them that it was a country worth keeping and that it must not fall into the hands of the English. He spoke as a man Inspired. and his words were heeded.

SINGULAR FISH CRADLES.

A Father Pish Who Hatches His Young In His Mouth. In the Nile there is a singular fish that has been known from early Bible times. It is dedicated to the Apostle Simon or Peter is known as Tilapia simonis and is especially common in Palestine and the sea or lake of Tiberius. Nearly all these fishes have a singular method of caring for their young. At the time of spawning the mother fish forms a little nest among the reeds and rushes, in which she deposits perhaps 200 green eggs, about the size of shot, which she immediate ly deserts. Curiously enough, in all the thousands of fishes but three or four instances are known where the mother displays any affection for her young or remains by them.

The father stations himself by the nest and presently appears to be dining upon the eggs, but if he is carefully watched it will be seen that he is taking them into his mouth with the greatest care and not swallowing them. They are lodged in what corresponds to the cheeks and held there. The eggs soon hatch, the little fishes grow and the countenance of Mr. Tilapin becomes greatly swollen and puffed out of all semblance to his former self. He cannot begin to close his mouth and presents a most extraordinary appearance.

To accommodate and protect the growing family the fish submits to great inconvenience and only permits them to escape when it is a physical impossibility to hold them any longer. At this time the father will undergo severe treatment rather than relinquish his progeny. He has been thrown out upon the beach, but still clings to his charge, even during his death struggles. Many of the young remain in this singular cradle until they are four inches in length.-Philadelphia Inquirer.

MAY FIRES.

An Ancient Scotch Custom Which Once Involved Human Sacrifice.

Sir John Sinclair's "Statistical Account of Scotland" contains notices of many old customs, which still continued to be observed in the Highlands. though they were even then fast dying out. From the eleventh volume of that great work, which was published in 1791 and the succeeding years, we learn, on the authority of the minister of Callander, Perthshire, that the boys of the township assembled in a body upon the moors on May day, and proceeded to dig a circular trench, leaving the soil in the center undisturbed, so as to form a low table of green turf, sufficient in size to accommodate the whole party.

They lighted a fire and prepared a custard of milk and eggs, and a large oatmeal cake, which they baked upon a stone placed in the embers. When they had eaten the custard, they divided the cake into as many equal portions as there were persons in the assembly and daubed one of those pieces with charcoal until it was perfectly black. They then placed all the pieces of cake together in a bonnet, and each in turn drew one blindfolded, the holder of the bonnet being entitled to the last piece The boy who drew the blackened portion was destined to be sacrificed and was compelled to leap three times through the flames.

Although the ceremony had degen erated into a mere pastime for boys, it is evident that it must once upon a time have involved the actual sacrifice of a human being, in order to render the coming summer fruitful.-Gentleman's Magazine.

The Chinese Almanac is the most largely circulated publication in the world, the copies printed and sold yearly reaching several millions. It is printed at Peking and is a monopoly of the emperor, no other almanac being permitted to be sold in that country. Although containing reliable astronomical information, its chief mission is to give full and accurate information for selecting lucky places for performing all the acts, great and small, of everyday life. And as every act of life in China, however trivial, depends for its success on the time in which and the direction (point of compass) toward which it is done, it is of the utmost importance that every one should have correct information at all times available to enable him so to order his life as to avoid bad luck and calamity and secure good luck and prosperity. So great is the native faith in its infallibility that not long since the Chinese minister to Germany refused to sail on a day which had been appointed because it was declared in the almanac to be unlucky.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Bunyan's Sharp Answer.

John Bunyan wrote "The Pilgrim's Progress" in Bedford tail, where he was confined for his religion. A Quaker came to the prison and thus addressed him:

"Friend Bunyan, the Lord hath sent me to seek for thee, and I have been through several counties in search of thee and now I am glad I have found thee.'

Bunyan replied, "Friend, thou dost not speak truth in saying the Lord sent thee to seek for me, for the Lord well knows that I have been in this jail for some years, and if he had sent thee he would have sent thee here di-

DYNAMITE IS FICKLE.

YOU CAN NEVER TELL WHAT A CAR-TRIDGE WILL DO NEXT.

Some Interesting Stories of the Cranky Nature of the Stuff, Which, a Boss Blaster Says, Is as Contradictory as a Woman

"A cartridge of dynamite is pretty much like a woman-you can never tell what it is going to do next, because it doesn't know itself," said a boss blaster. "I have seen a powder salesman throw a cartridge of dynamite into the redhot fire box of a 20 horse boiler, and the stuff just burned like lard. Next day I saw a cart boy repeat the experiment with a blacksmith's forge and a pill of dynamite no larger than a pea—and there will be a wholesome fear and soft coal in that boy as long as he lives.

"I have seen a case of 100 sticks of dynamite fall 800 feet down a shaft and never wink, and I've seen an Indian drop a half cartridge from his hand to his boot and not a grease spot did the poor fellow leave behind. At that the poor fellow deserved a better fate, for be made a desperate fight for it before he scattered. "He was loading a block hole at the time and had just broken a cartridge in half when he dropped one of the pieces. Before it could touch the ground he sort of half caught it, and then began a desperate brief juggling act. Again and again he half caught the deadly thing. Then he missed it. He made one last effort and stuck out his foot to break the fall against the hard ground, but it didn't work. There was a bang, and it was lucky no one stood near him. Which shows that dynamite is like a woman, because in my time I have dropped similarly hundreds of cartridges of dynamite, and still I am here and with a good digestion.

"But it is in winter, when dynamite freezes, that it is most capricious. Then if you want it to go off it simply refuses, or burns with a dull roar, like a boiler blowing off steam. It is in thawing dynamite that most of the accidents happen about which you read. There are two ways of thawing dynamite-one by placing the car tridges on a steam boiler or within safe distance of a fire; the other by immersing them in pails of hot water. As the latter method draws out considerable of the nitroglycerin from the cartridges, and therefore weakens them, it is often discarded in favor of the more risky thawing by an open fire.

"I once saw an experienced powder man thaw a dozen cartridges by an open fire, though, as the sequel will show, he completely lost his head when suddenly confronted with an unusual emergency. He had placed the cartridges within a foot of an open wood fire and had seated himself near by to await developments when one of the cartridges caught fire.

"Had he left it to burn itself out the chances are a thousand to one that nothing very startling would have happened, for it is concussion and not fire that explodes dynamite. Instead, he rushed forward, picked up the burning stick by one end, and holding it upward like a candle began to blow and blow until he was black in the face. He never let go until the flame began to nip his fingers, and then in his excitement he threw the cartridge to the ground and began to stamp and grind on it with his heels as if he were killing a snake; and, by thunder! he stamped out the burning cartridge and lived to tell about it! The cart boys called him 'Angel' after that, because

'One day a professor from Stevens Institute of Technology came to the quarry and asked me to perform a certain experiment for him. We printed with dynamite direct from a newspaper on to a block of iron. The professor said the experiment proved most interesting, as he had discovered among other things that dynamite works downward and not upward, like black powder. Our way of proving that in a quarry is to lay a stick of dynamite on top of a bowlder. After the shot the bowlder is smashed to bits. "But the professor had his own notions. He carried three round blocks of iron six inches in dlameter and three inches thick. Then he took a newspaper from his pocket and spread one sheet over the face of the block. I placed half a stick of dynamite on top and covered it with a little heap of sand and touched her off. You would hardly believe the result, but you can see the block on exhibition in a glass case in the Stevens institute library, and you can read on it distinetly-of course, the type appears backward-the printing of that part of the paper which covered the block at the time of the explosion.

"But the professor had another wrinkle up his sleeve. He picked an ordinary oak leaf and spread it over the face of a second block. I prepared a charge similar to the first, and this time the ribs of the leaf and even its outlines appeared distinctly pressed into the iron surface. According to the professor, the action of the dynamite was so quick that the ribs of the leaf had not time to burst apart before they were impressed on the iron. In the case of the newspaper the printed letters were barder than the surrounding white of the paper, therefore the impression.

"The professor's third block is not on exhibition for the reason that we never found a piece of it larger than a clove -and that reminds me, what do you say?" The reporter said "Yes."-Chicago Inter Ocean.

It Is an Interesting and Somewhat Complicated Operation.

An eminent dentist is authority for the following interesting explanation: It would take too long to describe the formation of the teeth, but it may, interest you to know that the enamel is derived in the first place from the epithelium, or scarf skin, and is in fact modified skin, while the dentine, of which the bulk of the teeth is composed, is derived from the mucous layer below the epithelium. Lime salts are slowly-deposited, and the tooth pulp or nerve is the last remains of what was once a pulpy mass of the shape of the future tooth, and even the tooth pulp in the old people sometimes gets quite obliterated by, calcerous deposits. The 32 permanent teeth are preceded by 20 temporary deciduous or milk teeth.

These are fully erupted at about 2 or 21/2 years old, and at about 6 years of age a wonderful process of absorption sets in by which the roots of the temporary teeth are removed to make room for the advancing permanent ones. The crowns of the former, having no support, become loose and fall away.,

One would naturally suppose that the advancing permanent tooth was a powerful factor in the absorption of its temporary predecessor, but we have many facts to prove that it has no infinence whatever. Indeed, the interesting phenomena of the eruption and succession of the teeth are very little understood.

I may remark in passing that a child of 6, who has not yet lost any temporary teeth, has in its jaws, either erupted or nonerupted, no fewer than 52 teeth more or less formed.

How They Dress in Paris.

Walk along the streets of Paris, and you will see 100 simple citizens tricked out in such a guise as in sober Loudon would make them ridiculous.

Is a man a poet? Then his bair is instantly long, his clothes are shabby and fantastic, his hat, with its flat brim. recalls the fashion of 1830. Is a man a painter? Then his clothes proclaim that he inhabits Montmartre and that he wanders up and down under the skinny trees of the Bouleyard Rochechouart. Is a man a journalist? Then he is what is called epatant and dines for a reduced price at the Cafe Anglais. Is a man a deputy? Then the imagination refrains from a formula; be has a brougham, and he is decorated, but beyond this the eye of dogmatism cannot penetrate.

Yet, whoever he be, he dresses the part; he separates himself from the bourgeoisie by a trick of costume and gesture, and though no man ever possessed so brilliant a genius as the young Frenchman assumes his love of acting instantly marks him out, and the world is so wisely accustomed to his antics that a man who would be mobbed in London marches up and Paris Standard.

Skating on Water.

According to Professor J. Joly of Trinity college, Dublin, a skater really glides about on a narrow film of water continually forming under the skate and resuming the solid form when relieved of pressure. He shows that the pressure under the sharp edge of the skate, along the short portion of the steel curve which is at any moment in contact, is great enough to liquefy a thin line of ice, and this gives the skate its "bite." When the ice is very cold, the pressure is sometimes inadequate to reduce the melting point sufficiently, and then, as all skaters know, it is difficult to make the skates bite. For very cold ice Professor Joly recommends "hollow ground" skates, because the effective pressure increases

On one of Landseer's early visits to Scotland the great painter stopped at a village and took a great deal of notice of the dogs, jetting down rapid sketches f them on a piece of paper. Next day, on resuming his journey, he was horrified to find dogs suspended from trees in all directions, or drowning in the rivers, with stones around their necks. He stopped a weeping urchin, who was hurrying off with a pet pup in his arms, and learned to his dismay that he was supposed to be an excise officer who was taking notes of all the dogs he saw in order to prosecute the owners for unpaid taxes.
